People want to travel, to write, to paint, to camp, to do any number of activities, and find they dont have time to do those things until its too late. The author doesnt live like a pauper - he travels, rides and races motorcycles, gives speeches, and writes. What is it you want to do before its too late? The author lived on an 80 acre farm for several years, and his entire rent and utilities were $50 a month. In Chapter Seven, the author writes about a couple who found free housing and in three years saved $136,290 and began living their dreams. Examples of rent and mortgage free living for families, for couples, for singles, and students are explained. This book is a must for people who want to be prepared for an uncertain future, for those who want to save money to be a prepper, or want to use savings for travel or hobbies.
